

Meet a Science Writer: Sophie Okolo

Meet Sophie Okolo! She is a science writer. Sophie helps communicate science to the public.

Many science writers specialize in a certain area of science. Sophie's work focuses on healthcare and aging. She also writes about ways technology can be used to help us stay healthy.

Sophie started and runs a website called Global Health Aging. Many of the articles she writes are on that site.

Sophie writing at her computer.

Being a science writer consists of more than writing! Sophie must research the topic she is reporting on. She also interviews people.

Sophie studied several areas of science in school before becoming a science writer!

What was Sophie's childhood like?

Sophie's childhood was full of adventure and curiosity! She especially loved to read. She loved fictional stories which brought her to imaginary worlds. She also loved to read about nature and the human body.

Sophie's parents loved science and encouraged her to think like a scientist at a young age.

Sophie hopes you love to read and write about science too!